

FROM J.M. Dolyns

Camp Grande

America's Finest Tourist Camp
EL PASO, TEXAS

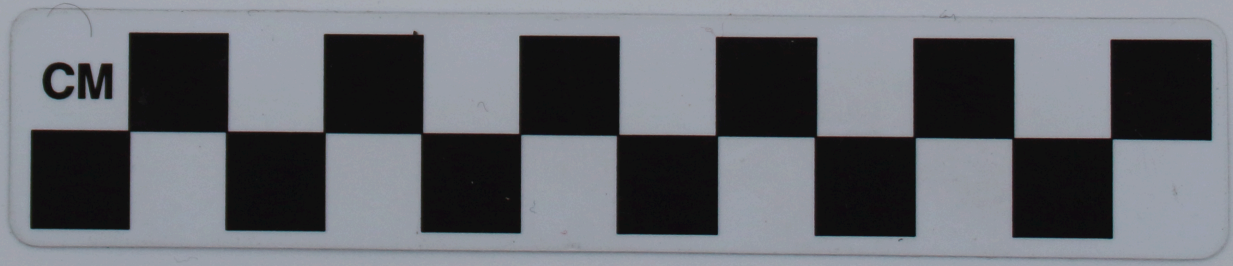

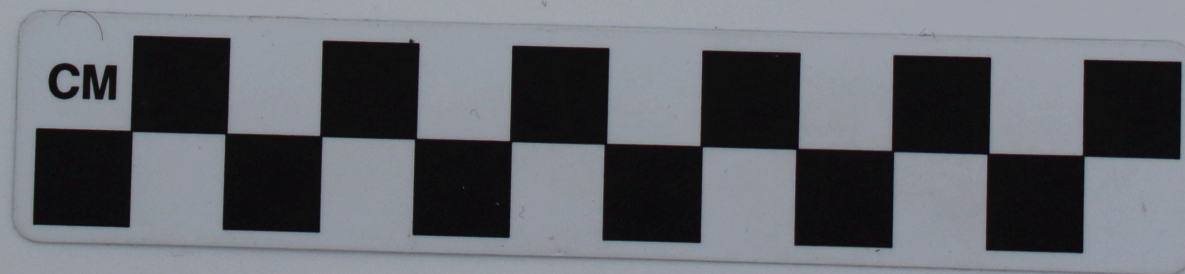

We are on the

The All-Year Highway

Mr. H.W. Grandy
233 Linwood Ave,
Monrovia,
Calif

Modern
Furnished Bungalows
Shady Camp Spaces

Steam Heated In The Winter
Cool and Shady During the Summer Months

Camp Grande

The Southwest's Premier Tourist Camp
East El Paso — Hi-way No. 80

EL PASO, TEXAS

June 8, 1932

Dearest Folks,

We have been trying to cross this land called Texas for the last two or three days, or whatever time it has been — therefore I have not written, mainly because after a day's run in this country is a day's run.

The south eastern portion of the Lone Star State is similar to La. + the other Gulf States, ~~then~~ having swamp lands + etc. As one drives westward the scenery changes with the mile — from ^{swamps to} pines, from pines to oaks, then gradually wild pepper trees + cactus to cactus + sage brush. Around El Paso the hills are ^{so} very barren that the ^{green} valley formed by the Rio Grande is a striking contrast.

Tomorrow we may cross the Mexican border only a mile away + visit the town Juarez. At the present time the radio here is play^{ing} Spanish music, so one does not have to use much imagination to vision dancing señoritas etc. "La Bandera" ^(?) being played.

This is a marvelous camp, with absolutely everything one could ask for — large wash room + court to dry ones clothes; pool + playground for children drug store, filling station, grocery store, etc. I'll

COOL, SHADY IN SUMMER

— STEAM HEAT IN WINTER

CM

enclose a sticker so you will see what the entrance to the camp is like. El Paso is well supplied with auto camps. Our route from now is supposed to have plenty of auto camps along the way, for which we are thankful.

We may stay here another day as we are both tired from the last two days of driving over roads mostly composed of detours over which one can drive scarcely more than 20-35 an hour, & sometimes in gear.

Too sleepy, so will say Buenos Noches,

Love

Yar + Alden

STEAM HEAT IN WINTER

COOL SHADY IN SUMMER

CM